

AZRA NAHEED MEDICAL COLLEGE
DEPARTMENT OF OPHTHALMOLOGY

CLASS TEST MBBS 4TH YEAR

TIME ALLOWED: 1 hour

DATED: 25-1-18

TOTAL MARKS: 25

conjunctiva
orbital cellulitis,
Primary congenital glaucoma
secondary in u
Bacterial keratitis,
Dacryocystitis, HSV keratitis,
Ophthalmia Neonatorum

1. A mother brought her 1 week old baby complaining of having profuse purulent discharge from his eyes, she also complains that the eyes are sticky in the morning

by symptoms and signs and suppurative
keratitis
Application
Antibiotics
steroid

- What is your diagnosis? 66
- What is the differential diagnosis → Bacterial keratitis 5
- What treatment is advised in this condition? Topical Ab. tetracycline Sp. Erythromycin

2. A 6 year old girl presents with redness, chemosis and watery discharge from her both eyes. Her sister had similar symptoms a week ago. Her conjunctiva shows follicular reaction

- What is the most likely diagnosis? epidemic keratoconjunctivitis 5
- Write down the differential diagnosis → conjunctivitis, cold water application, antibiotics, Topical + sys
- How would you treat this patient, give a detailed treatment plan? 61

3. Define Scleritis and Episcleritis. give the differentiating points between the two diseases

Chlamydia Trachomatis
Chlam. Tr

4. Name the organism responsible for causing Trachoma and Explain the SAFE strategy for Trachoma? 63 Rx + Surgery + hygiene 5

5. A 12 year old boy presents with burning, severe itching in his eyes with thick ropy discharge. His condition gets aggravated in spring and summer season. 68 5

- What is the most likely diagnosis?
- What is the aetiology of the disease? exogenous allergen - ussage Heat, dust.
- How will u manage this case?

Vernal Keratoconjunctivitis
Topical therapy + systemic therapy + supratarsal steroiding.