

Maximum marks: 35

07 SEQs; 5 marks each.

Time allowed: 2 hours

Attempt all questions

1. 30 years' lecturer in her first pregnancy came to antenatal clinic at 32 weeks of pregnancy. Her SFH (symphysis fundal height) is 36cms.

IUGR
oligohydramnios
Constitutionally small fetus

- a. A large SFH in this patient raises the possibilities of what? 1.5
- b. If her SFH was 28 weeks what can be the possibilities? 1.5
- c. What are the functions of amniotic fluid? 2

Polyhydramnios
Macrosomia
Twin pregnancy

37 (37)

2. A 29 year, primigravida came to antenatal clinic at 10 weeks of pregnancy. She has body mass index (BMI) of 34.

- a. What are the maternal complications you will discuss with her? 2.5
- b. What are the neonatal complications you will discuss with her? 2.5

(17)

birth, infection.

3. A 30 year, G2P1 at 33 weeks presented with decreased fetal movements. She is advised biophysical profile

~~breach delivery~~

- a. What parameters of biophysical profile you will look for in this lady? 2.5
- b. How will you manage her? 2.5

(54)

Back

1. G2P1, admitted at 40<sup>+2</sup> weeks, with irregular labor pains. She had a spontaneous rupture of membranes with clear liquor. On pelvic examination cervix is effaced and 3 cm dilated.

- a. What will be your management plan for her? 3
- b. When will you start continuous electronic fetal monitoring in her? 2

Management of labour

(207)

5. 29 years old G3P2 presented in early labour with breach presentation. Her previous 2 deliveries were uneventful. She wants vaginal delivery.

- a. What complications of breach delivery you will discuss with her? 2.5
- b. How will you counsel her for analgesia during labor? 2.5

(92)

225

(397 UHS)

6. A 25 years' lady had a forceps delivery for her first baby 10 days back. She presented with heavy fresh vaginal bleeding with clots and feeling unwell. She had fever 38.5-degree C. The cervix admits one finger and uterus is 14-week size.

- a. What is the most likely diagnosis and reason for it? 1
- b. What are the key features that suggest this diagnosis? 1.5
- c. How would you manage her? 2.5

Secondary PPH

(278)

7. 35 year primigravida with type 1 diabetes is 10 weeks pregnant. Her recent HbA1c is 70 mmol/mol. She comes to antenatal clinic for booking.

- a. How will you counsel her regarding effects of diabetes on pregnancy? 1.5
- b. How will you manage her during pregnancy? 3.5

(151)